Other suffragettes centred their attacks on the carriage bearing Queen Mary to the palace. The carriage containing the Queen Mother Alexandra and the Queen of Norway, a sister of King George, was object of a similar attack and copies of the Suffragette were hurled into the Marriage a Family Agair.

The marriage in the plain little chape of St. James's Palace was extremely simple when measured by the standard of the average royal wedding. It was more of a family affair than a royal pageant.
The ceremony, however, was not

The ceremony, however, was not lacking in brilliancy, for the women's splendid robes and shimmering tiaras and the men's gold laced uniforms with glittering decorations filled the chapei with color. Two men only did not appear in colored clothes. They were Ambassador Walter H. Page, who was seen among the gold laced Ambassadors in plain evening dress, and Lord Lytton, who was in black velvet court dress. Mrs. Page was in a gown of sphinx creps de beauce, with an overtunic of tulic embroidered with sphinx beads.

The lack of pomp in the ceremonial was more than made up for by the roaring tumultuous welcome accorded thousands of persons to Prince Arthur and his bride. There has never been a more popular royal wedding in England. The Prince and his bride are alike public favorites, and the fact that both are English immensely strengthened popular indorsement of the alliance. If either of them had married a member of a foreign royal family crowds would have gathered to see the show, as they always do, but there would not have been the joyous en-thusiasm displayed by to-day's throng, which seemed to be demonstrating the sympathy and affection of personal friends.

last royal wedding in England was on June 15, 1905, when Prince Arthur's sister, Princess Margaret of Connaught, was the bride of the Crown Prince of Sweden. The wedding was celebrated in St. George's Chapel, Windsor.

HAVANA, Oct. 15.—President Menocal's call for an extra session of Congress for the purpose of passing a bill authorizing a loan of $15,000,000 to pay off the debts left by the Gomez administration is still unheeded and the President is angry. There was no quorum again to-day in the House and Senate. The Liberal leader, after a conference with the Presdent this morning, announced that President Menocal told him that if Congress does not vote the loan he will get the money anyhow by cutting down the budget and thereby outting thousands of office holders. The Liberals denounce this threat as an unwarranted menace on the part of the Chief Executive.

BOUND TO HOLD ELECTION. Huerta Goes Ahead With His Plans for This Month.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Intimations that President Huerta is going to stick to his programme in Mexico whether President Wilson likes it or not were re-ceived at the State Department to-night. Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American charge d'affaires at Mexico city, sent to Wash-ington the text of a decree issued by the provisional President prescribing the regu-lations under which elections for President, Vice-President and members of Congress will be held one week from next ffect as his answer to the President's note of yesterday notifying the Mexican Executive that the United States Government repudiates in advance the relican port on the suits of any elections which may be held has been used be in Mexico under the present regime. Had Huerta any intention of abandoning the elections as a result of the notification of President Wilson's disapproval of his despotic acts it is believed here he would not have permitted the election decree to ecome public.

So desperate is Huerta's position that his virtual disregard of the President's notice that it would be useless to held the elections occasioned no surprise here. In fact it is considered as quite consistent with his previous acts that he should gnore admonition from the United States. the latter Government having refused to recognize him and having prevented him from obtaining the financial assistance he That this is a most critical period in the Mexican situation was frankly admitted on all sides to-day. It was conceded that the present tension may be abruptly ended by a rupture between the two Governments at almost any time. Huerta's difficulties in maintaining his supremacy in the Mexican capital are reasing daily, while at the same time United States is evidencing an even ore hostile attitude toward him and his

cts. Notwithstanding the apparent drift toward a situation which may finally demand drastic steps on the part of the United States, President Wilson still refuses even to entertain a thought of intervention. Military men in Washington had no hesi-tancy to-day in expressing grave fears tancy to-day in expressing grave fears for the consequences of the happenings in Mexico city in the next few days, but the President is confident that this crisis will be passed, as have others in the Mexian situation, without any serious thought

However, Mr. Wilson is determined that American warships shall remain on guard in Mexican waters the same as heretofore, notwithstanding protests from Huerta to the contrary. The technical move of he contrary. The technical move of changing the battleships at the end of the month, when the six months period granted by Congress expires, will be a literal observance of the will of the Mexican United States anything in dignity or in the safety of its interests.

partment to-day from the Mexican Gov-ernment to either of the communications was ordered to-day to proceed to Ameri-sent to President Huerta from Washing- can waters owing to the disturbances in Late in the day it was intimated that this Government is no longer expecting a reply. It was hinted that the reason lies in the fact that steps were taken by Mr. O'Shaughnessy to head off a response. It is known that yesterday and last evening the Mexican Cabinet busied itself with a reply to the first note from Washington regarding the safety of the Deputies, which was pronounced in Mexico city as of intemperate language. Advance information was received here that this reply was to be a very sharp retort to the United States.

O'Shaughnessy Caused Change.

With a visit to the Mexican Foreign Office by Charge O'Shaughnessy last night, however, the preparation of the reply sud-denly ceased. What passed is not being made public here, but it has been plainly indicated that this Government no longer expects Huerta to make any response either of the Washington.

Much significance is attached to the meeting of the diplomatic corps in Mexico city to-day on the call of the Spanish Minister. Secretary Bryan refused to say whether or not Nelson O'Shaughnessy would attend the meeting.

It would occasion no surprise here if he were not present, for since the adoption of the Wilson policy of non-recogni-tion the diplomatic corps has met on more than one occasion without requesting the presence of the American representatives.

If Mr. O'Shaughnessy did attend today's meeting it is assumed that he set forth to the representatives of other Gov-ernments the action taken by President Wilson since Huerta's seizure of the powers of a dictator. All the members of the diplomatic corps are in accord with President Wilson so far as their attitude in regard to the imprisoned Deputies is concerned, the Spanish Minister as dean of the corps having made representations to Huerta on their behalf.

No expressions have yet reached the State Department, either through Mexico

State Department, either through Mexico city or from foreign capitals, as to what view other Governments take of the President's repudiation in advance of the results of the forthcoming elections.

The greatest perplexity is admitted by high officials as to what is going to happen next in Mexico. It is admitted that the United States has not suggested to Huerta anything that it is desired that he do nor offered him any loophole by which he can escape from the situation. The be can escape from the situation. The President's action has been limited to demand for safeguarding the imprisoned Deputies, and announcement of disap-proval of what Huerta has done and proval of what Huerta has done and repudiation of the results of the forthcoming elections in advance of the polling.

It is not even known whether Huerta intends to go ahead with the elections or not. of Female Preachers Doesn't Appeal to Congregationalists.

Special Cable Despatch to Tuk Sts. London, Oct. 15 .- For the first time in its history the Congregational Union now in session at Southend devoter a cay to women's views. The main point made by those who took part in the debate was that women's sphere in church work is too limited, several advocating the admission of vomen to the ministry on an equal footing with men.

One man expressed doubt that one church in a hundred would accept a woman preacher. "Men would refuse, he said, "to sit at the feet of those bet ter able to instruct them in religion and morals than members of our own sex."

The president of the union, the Rev.
